BACK HOME to visit family and friends, Edmonton Oiler Mark Letestu stopped by the A. G. Ross Arena, his second home as an atom and peewee player in the 1990s, for a spring skate with today's minor hockey stars. He also made the official presentation of 14 sets of hockey equipment for 'Letestu's Locker' to Elk Point Minor Hockey president Jay Pankiw and vice-president Tyler Warawa.

It's been 17 years since Elk Point Peewee Lightning defeated Lac La Biche to win the zone title and head to Fairview for the Peewee "C" Provincials. Lightning's assistant captain Mark 'the Marksman' Letestu scored four goals in the deciding game, as he did in two previous playoff games, a feat that led Elk Point Review sports reporter Doug Bassett to comment, "Mark is obviously a dangerous player when he has the puck."

In the profiles of Peewee Lightning players later that month, as the team was ready to head north, Bassett reported that the centre man, who at that time wore number 11, exhibited "Good puck control, accurate with passes and shots. Exceptional hockey sense, set up man. Team motivator with his offense. Very strong finisher, highest team scorer, one of the top three highest in the league."

In March 2006, Letestu was back on the front page of the Review as the Bonnyville Pontiacs captain, accepting the Alberta Junior Hockey League's Most Valuable Player trophy from league president Kevin Marsh, after a 50-goal, 105-point regular season.

The following decade saw Letestu play a year of college hockey, three with the Wilkes-Barre/Scranton Penguins of the AHL and a stint with the Wheeling Nailers, before Letestu moved up from the farm team to the NHL, spending three seasons with the Pittsburgh Penguins before being traded to the Columbus Blue Jackets. His July 1, 2015 signing of a three-year contract with the Edmonton Oilers brought him back close to home where many local fans have taken the opportunity to see him in action.

Town council checks out new interactive website

Elk Point town council explored additional ways to spread the word about the community and all it offers at last week's meeting, with Clinton Boyda of Town Life and Brooke Yaremchuk giving them a tour of the town's new website.

The new site offers a constantly growing amount of information and puts it at the fingertips of both those in the community, who want to check out the wording of a bylaw or track down the hours the transfer station is open, for example, and those far away who want to know what there is to see and do if they visit Elk Point. The new site features the ability to add information on a day-to-day basis and to keep an accurate calendar of coming events, which was not possible on the previous website. It also allows viewers to search for the information they need and to post photos of the area in its photo gallery.

Another feature is that volunteer organizations will be able to develop and link their own webpages to the Elk Point site for easy access.

The new website received council's approval, with councilors calling the new site "a huge step forward" and "a big improvement" over its predecessor.

Another aspect of the Internet was discussed by recreation director Jena

Colbourne, who spoke on ways to engage audiences on Facebook, Twitter and Instagram and noted that Facebook is a fast and easy way to spread the word about emergency situations such as last week's water line break, which left residents without water for several hours. She suggested increasing her hours to include internet communications in her duties for the town. The matter was later referred to the upcoming budget meeting. Mayor Parrish Tung noted that the town's social media and confidentiality policies would have to be followed if the suggestion was implemented.

Regional business plan

The Regional Strategic Business Plan that the town shares with the Town and County of St. Paul and the Summer Village of Horseshoe Bay received council's approval, providing that it is editable in the future.

Policies approved

The Elk Point Fire Department Levels of Service Policy was approved after a change of wording in one clause.

Policies involving snow removal from highway sidewalks, priority street cleaning and sidewalk cleaning by town crews were also passed, with CAO Ken Gwozdz confirming that the cleaning of residential sidewalks is already covered under a bylaw which states that this must be done within 48 hours after a snowfall.

Last Tuesday, they got an even closer look at the local hockey hero when he came to the A. G. Ross Arena, where team pictures of his 1996-97 season with the Atom Elks and his 1997-99 seasons with the Pee wee Blades and Pee wee Lightning are among those lining the hallway to the stands and dressing rooms. Each of three age groups of today's minor hockey players and even one or two of his former teammates had the opportunity to skate and shoot with the Oiler, to pose for pictures and even get an autograph.

A very special part of Letestu's visit was the official presentation of the 14 full sets of hockey gear, sized for players from age four to 16 or 17, that makes up the contents of Letestu's Locker, a special gift from the NHL Players' Association that will ensure that children of every age, size and financial situation has the opportunity to enjoy the sport.

Elk Point Minor Hockey vice president Tyler Warawa, who accepted the gift along with president Jason Pankiw, told Letestu that only one set of the equipment was used this year, because it arrived well into the hockey season, "but next year, we'll do much more with it."

Letestu said his visit with today's minor hockey players in the arena where he spent his Atom and Pee wee years was "as enjoyable for me as it was for them." Asked what his advice for the young players was, he replied, "Go out and have fun!"

Mark Letestu posed with a group of young fans after their skate together.

Drying fast

With the recent warm weather, the snow is on its way out, and wooded areas, pasture grass and, stubble are drying out fast.

Grass fires are already prevalent in areas further south and west, and fire bans are already in place in many municipalities.

It's time for us to start thinking about fire safety, even before those bans are in place. Dry vegetation and strong spring winds are a dangerous combination, so make sure that any outdoor burning you do is safely contained and that flammable materials are a long way away from that first barbecue or wiener roast of the season. Stay safe, and hope for spring rains!

WAY BACK WHEN....

Conservation family, Phantom, solar lights

HERE'S THE NEWS THAT MADE THE HEADLINES OF THE LAKELAND REVIEW AND ELK POINT REVIEW FOR THE WEEK OF APRIL 5 IN...

1986

Elk Point Chamber of Commerce discussed plans for the official opening of the new Elk Point Bridge, with the Opening Committee estimating at least 30 people would be needed to serve buffalo burgers, pop and ice cream, and asking the chamber to find volunteers. St. Paul and Bonnyville Atoms won Elk Point's final minor hockey tournaments of the season, with the host team placing second on the 'A' side.

1991

Elk Point Elementary School's Grade 6 students would gain new insight into the business world, thanks to a Junior Achievement program sponsored by Norcen Energy Resources and the Elk Point Chamber of Commerce. Darlene and Calvin Kozicky were surprised with the first-ever County of St. Paul Conservation Farm Family award, five years after a fall when no time for fall tillage made no reduction in yields the next year, but did reduce input costs.

1996

Five sellout crowds enjoyed Elk Point Community Choir and Friends' dinner theatre production of 'The Phantom of the Op'ry,' with one performer at the Skunk Creek Op'ry House keeping his talent hidden, except when it suited his purpose. John Kaplan and his Magic Bus rolled into town with exciting entertainment that included sawing Elk Point Elementary teacher Don Buryn in half in one of the illusions.

2001

Elk Point had a much shorter waiting list for senior housing than St. Paul did, with only eight seniors waiting to move into Heritage Lodge compared to 68 on the waiting list for Sunnyside Manor. Susan MacKinnon, Marlene Malachowski, Joe and Adrian MacKinnon defeated Ed and Colleen Irvine and Richard and Sheila Irvine to win the Town and Country Bonspiel.

2006

Four accomplished young musicians, Josh Boyko, Nicky Myshaniuk, Colin Ference and Pat Lapointe, of the band Mockteerah, took top billing in the Northern Star Search competition. Elk Point's new grader arrived on the heels of what was hoped to be winter's last blast, to replace the well-worn 1990 model.

2011

Town council vowed to look into solar lights for the walking trail after receiving a letter from chamber of commerce president Sandy Smith, urging the town to 'go green.' Elk Point Community Choir took their final bows as the curtain fell on "Annie, Get Your Gun," the year's dinner theatre presentation.

THEY AREN'T HIS USUAL OILERS TEAMMATES, but a number of Oilers jerseys were in evidence, along with many Avalanche and others, when Mark Letestu came back to the A. G. Ross Arena, where he honed his hockey skills as an Atom and Peewee, to skate with today's Minor Hockey gang last Tuesday, before heading back to join the Oilers in their final games of his first season with the team.

RECREATION CORNER

Letestu welcomed back to AGR

JENA COLBOURNE
Recreation Director

The Minor Hockey kids in Elk Point were soaring as high as the spring sun, shining in the sky, as they had an opportunity of a lifetime to skate with hometown hero and NHL star, Mark Letestu. Letestu showed the community his true character by taking time out of his busy schedule as an Edmonton Oiler, to come back to the community he was raised in.

"It means everything to the kids," gushes Doug Bassett, Elk Point Minor Hockey's Most Dedicated Fan, "the kids really look up to him, he's a hero to them." Bassett says he wishes he had the opportunity to coach Letestu in hockey. "He was always very coach-able. As a kid, I coached him in baseball, he should've made Major League Baseball. He was always a leader, when he made veteran on our teams. When he was a rookie, he was always a listener, sat on the bench lots, took his time out - never pouted, went to right field when he had to - never pouted; he just trotted out there. When it was his turn to be the man and win the big games, he could handle the pressure like no one else I've ever known."

Letestu said being back at the A.G. Ross Arena was fun, "especially with the kids being able to come out and have fun out there. Their season may over and this is kinda a way to tie up the year for them; we're just having fun out there." Elk Point had one of its best years yet, with three of the eight teams winning League Championships, as well as, making it to Provincials. The kids' memorable season was only enhanced by ending it with Letestu, and "it was as enjoyable for me as it is for them."

Minor Hockey President, Jay Pankiw, says the day was "something the kids will carry with them forever. Not everybody gets an opportunity to skate with a NHL star. For him to go out of his way to show his own humbleness, to come back to his home town and skate with the kids, for no other reason than putting a smile on a kid's face, just shows his enormous personality. It shows how great of a person he is."

Letestu praised the town on producing great talent, "the talent is pretty impressive! There were a couple times I had to try really hard to get the puck away from them. The coaches have done a good job here, the kids are passionate about their craft and their skill level is great." As Letestu knows, passion goes a long way to improving your game.

"When he told me he could do this," Bassett says, he knew right away Letestu was serious about making the NHL, "I had a hunch that he could and he proved that he could. I never doubted anything he tried to do, he always tried to be the best at everything he did. He worked hard, he practiced, he paid attention, and he listened."

Letestu had a special message for the Elk Point Minor Hockey kids, first of all have fun and second value your time. "Value your practice time. Everybody kinda gets focused on the games, but if there's an opportunity to get better, to be around people that can take you in that direction, take it." Letestu valued his time with the kids, he talked and gave advice to each kid who wanted his attention. He signed autograph after autograph and didn't overlook a single child. He was gracious with his time and genuine with his smiles.

The day was to celebrate a large donation of hockey equipment from the NHL Players Association, Goals & Dreams Program. Minor Hockey received 14 full sets of hockey gear, sticks and skates included. The gear will be used to help players, who may not otherwise be able to, play the game. The program is called Letestu's Locker, after the star, because, Letestu made sure Elk Point Minor hockey knew of the program and is suspected to have worked behind the scenes to ensure Elk Point benefited from the program.

President Jay Pankiw says Letestu's Locker will give so many kids a chance to experience hockey. "First and foremost we'll use the program for people who need it. But we also want to look at doing an introduction to hockey. A six-week trial program at the beginning of the year so parents and kids can try hockey and see if it's really for them."

"For Letestu to come back, and his presence, gave kids that level of confidence that will move everybody forward in a positive direction."

the final fun tournament, but this past Tuesday our very own NHL hockey player, Edmonton Oiler Mark 'the Marksman' Letestu came for a visit and played shinny with the minor hockey kids from 3 p.m. to 7 p.m. . He skated with three different age groups for an hour each on the ice, plus at least another half hour after each session he signed autographs and took pictures with them. It's great to have him taking the time giving back to the kids. One mom told me her son couldn't even sleep the night before, knowing he was coming the next day to play hockey with them. And Mark's own mom brought him his supper and stayed to watch too.

And did you know that Mark was also one heck of a baseball player? Check in next week and I'll tell you all about it.

Spring training for our minor ball started last week in the F. G. Miller gym, but if the weather stays this nice we will be outside before you know it. I'm still waiting for the day we produce a Major League player. So don't forget to sign up for ball tonight at the AGR.

The last dance. The hockey season is now officially over for another year. The ice plant at the A. G. Ross Arena was shut down after this past Sunday.

But, what a weekend we had for the last hurrah wind up with the annual Jim Vinge Memorial Tournament. It's a great way to remember our good friend Jimmy who loved to be down at the rink watching his kids play. I would be doing the clock, he would bring the music and blow the horn. We worked a lot of games together. He loved being there just as much as I do. Thanks to everyone who helped make this year's tournament another huge success. It's fun for everyone, the way it's set up. Anyone can play, male or female players from 18 to over 60 (guess who), some really skilled players from the Elks and other Junior teams and a few slugs like myself, but everyone plays four games and has a blast.

This past week was a terrific week for the AGR, not only did we have
